To my own Precious Little Pet: November is shortly no more. 'Tis nearly 11 o'clock and I ought to be in bed, but feel I have a duty as well as a pleasure to perform. The absent and loved one is not forgotten; no, never. Though many cares are on my mind, yes, many; but my darling is the first thought. 'Tis right. I love to have you with me. Yes, I would. Then I'd not have to write. Gladly would I meet you, my darling. Yes, as many times before I'd be happy; so would my little darling; precious little darling; precious one. My darling, you always please me. Yes, 'tis with much pleasure that we meet. I wish we could to-night. Will strive to wait a little longer. Yes, but hope 'twill not be long. O my darling." SELLING A BOAT.

THE TRIALS OF AN OREGON SALMON FISHER—WIPING OUT AN INSULT TO THE BRITISH LION.

A late San Francisco exchange has the following good story which will bear republication:

A young gentleman hailing from Ireland, purchased a life-boat some weeks ago, and after sailing about the bay, exploring the Straits of Carquinez, capturing the adolescent salmon, and bringing down the gaudy wild duck, he resolved to sell his boat. Accordingly one of the crew, a lithe bland Britisher, was instructed to keep the "beach o' his weather eye lifted" for a customer. On making some inquiries, he was recommended to apply to a firm whose place of business is on California, not far from Front street. This firm being engaged in the Oregon salmon fisheries, had use of precisely the same description of craft as the Britisher had for sale. The latter, on asking for the head of the firm, was directed to a tall looking old gentleman with a lofty collar.

"I understand, sir, that you are desirous of purchasing a small boat for your Oregon salmon fisheries," began the Britisher blandly.

"Not that I am aware of, sir, was the stern reply.

"Thank you," said the boatman, politely preparing to withdraw.

"You needn't thank me, sir," said the gentleman.

"I'm obliged to you," said the Britisher, bowing as he retired.

"Needn't be obliged to me," replied the gentleman severely.

At this the British bosom fired, and the boat man remarked with some heat, "Go to the d—l; can't a man get a civil answer for a civil question."

At this terrible profanity a lean and ugubrious-looking clerk, with a faint "Oh!" upset his ink-bottle over the cash-book, and when the irate Briton left the office, the merchant was making a memorandum of a deduction from the clerk's salary for the cost of the book.

The Briton, fuming and chafing, collected his companions, who were in a neighboring saloon awaiting the result of the interview:

"He has insulted me," said the Briton; "the surly old dog knows less about politeness than one of his own dried salmon."

"Avast there," said an ex-member of the crew, "we'll get even with him. Just give me the helm, and if I don't bring down shaking up into the wind's eye, may I never break biscuit or taste pea soup more."

An hour afterward a well-dressed and gentlemanly looking individual entered the office of the Oregon fishery.

"Is the head of the firm disengaged?" he inquired mildly of the lean clerk.

"Yes, sir. Walk in and take a seat." And the visitor timidly availed himself of an office stool.

Dombey entered, and, impressed with the stranger's appearance, said, politely:

"How can I be of service to you, sir?"

The stranger smiled, and brushing some specks of dust from his hat with a perfumed handkerchief, said:

"I understand sir, that you are desirous of purchasing a small boat for your Oregon salmon fisheries. Allow me to state that I have just the craft you need at present lying at North Point Dock."

The old gentleman's face grew purple, and the lean clerk shook like an aspen leaf.

"Go," he muttered; "go before I do you an injury."

"Strange, very strange," said the visitor, musingly, but without displaying any surprise. "Losses in the bonanzas, probably; too much for him." "Ta, ta," he added pleasantly, as he departed.

The old gentleman resumed his writing and business went along smoothly in that office for an hour or so, until a stout gentleman rushed hurriedly in and said he had business of importance with the head of the firm, that individual bowed and surveyed his visitor closely.

"Excuse me, sir, but my business is strictly of a private nature. Can't I see you alone for ten minutes or so?"

"Certainly," was the reply, and the merchant led the way to his private office. The stranger drew a lot of papers from his pocket, selected one and said:

"You are engaged in Oregon salmon fisheries?"

"Yes, sir."

The stranger referred to his paper and read in a low tone: "Length 28 feet; breadth of beam, 8 feet; keel—oh, yes; hum—, understand, sir, that you are desirous of purchasing a small—"

He never finished the sentence, for the frantic merchant flung a large oilstand at his visitor's head, and with a howl of indignant passion, went for him with a heavy ruler. But his nimble persecutor bounded lightly over a prostrate chair, and with a triumphant whoop danced gaily around the corner, where the ex-crew were lying in an ecstasy of ratified revenge. The merchant is now in bed, from a bilious attack, and his physicians say that unless he is very careful, he will be lost forever to the Oregon salmon fisheries.

George Eliot works very hard, says a London correspondent of the Boston Herald—harder than her rather delicate health warrants—often writing seven or eight hours a day. Before she begins a novel, she not only outlines and arranges it, she so fixes it in her mind that her MS. is often merely a transcript of her elaborate mental preparation. Very far from handsome, she has an intellectual and striking face, too long and angular for symmetry; soft, abundant hair, streaked with gray; a low, sweet voice, a remarkably quiet, somewhat pensive and decidedly winning manner. Some persons do not like her at first, though all her friends, despite her unquestioned plainness, regard her as a charming woman. Her earnings at literary work are reported as follows: "Scenes of Clerical Life," £1,000; "Silas Marner," £1,500 "Adam Bede," £3,500; "Mill on the Floss," £4,000; "Romola," £3,000; "Felix Holt," £4,500; "Spanish Gypsy," £500; "Middlemarch," £8,000; "Jubal," £400; "Daniel Deronda," £6,000; making £32,400 in all, or about $165,000 in our currency. This is an average of $9,000 a year for the eighteen years in which she has been writing.

RAINBOWS IN THE SNOW.—The Cincinnati Commercial prints an extract from a letter written by a citizen of Denver, Col., Dec. 22, in which occurs the following: "I wrote you yesterday about 4 o'clock, when the weather was warm and pleasant, and I now want to take it all back, for about dark it turned cold and began snowing and blowing, and all day the thermometer has been hugging zero. But this morning we had a very remarkable sun snow-shower, or frost-shower, with the most singular and beautiful combinations of rainbows ever seen on this continent by the oldest inhabitants (of Colorado.) There were three circles—one large circle, taking in and circling around the entire city, that seemed so be about say four miles in diameter, one immediately above the city with a diameter of say one mile, and one circle around the sun, commencing at the horizon and merely touching the center ring, with five bright suns located about the inner circle, like the moons of Jupiter. Each ring seemed to be about ten feet wide and of the most brilliant rainbow colors. It was a sight never to be forgotten."

Relief Without a Doctor.

Though we would by no means be understood as deprecating, but rather as recommending, professional aid in disease, there are multitudes of instances when it is neither necessary or easy to obtain. A family provided with a comprehensive household specific like Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, is possessed of a medicinal resource adequate to most emergencies in which medical advice would be otherwise needful. That sterling tonic and corrective invariably remedies, and authoritatively recommended for debility, indigestion, liver disorders an irregular habit of body, urinary and uterine troubles, incipient rheumatism and gout, and many other ailments of frequent occurrence. It eradicates and prevents intermittent and remittent fevers, relieves mental despondency, checks premature decay and invigorates the nervous and muscular tissues. Sleep, digestion and appetite are promoted by it, and it is extremely useful in overcoming the effects of exhaustion and exposure.

We received a very pleasant letter of thanks from our old friend Kendall, since its return home, for a bottle of Johnson's Anodyne Liniment which we gave him, and which he says has entirely cured him of the troublesome and dangerous cough he had when here.

On the death of one of England's most eminent physicians, all his effects were sold at auction, and among other things was a sealed packet, marked "Advice to Physicians," which brought a great price. The purchaser on opening the packet read as follows: "Keep the head cool, the bowels open and the feet warm." If physic is necessary, use Parson's Purgative Pills—they are the most scientifically prepared pill that has appeared in the last hundred years.

It is reported that a large tract of very fine land has been discovered in Pierce county, back about twenty or thirty miles from the Sound. It is situated between the N. P. Railroad and the Puyallup branch railroad. The Tacoma Herald learns from parties who are now trying to improve places in the newly discovered agricultural district, that the land is easily reclaimed, and that a poor man can soon make himself a comfortable home there. There is rich land enough there to support a large number of families. Bottom lands are most abundant, with beaver dams, underbrush and standing water, can easily be removed, and a soil developed which is at once rich, deep and lasting.

In the local market there are no important changes to note as far as financial matters are concerned. The demands from various sources upon the monetary resources of the market are not large in the aggregate and in nearly all cases are readily met. A few men in trade are making some inquiry for funds to support them in the accumulation of spring stocks, but any increase in the call from that direction is fully offset by the falling off in the requirements of the produce trade.

Advices from San Francisco indicate a continued and abundant accumulation of capital with a general tendency toward a permanent reduction of the rates of interest. Several large loans are reported in our California exchanges as made last week at rates ranging from 8 to 10 per cent. per annum and one of $600,000 for one year at the low rate of 7 per cent.

The Chicago Journal of Commerce in reviewing the history of trade in the United States during the past year gives statistics of the aggregate clearings of 312 banking houses in 1876, in about a dozen cities of the country which foot up:

In 1875	$31,291,976,625
During 1876	28,224,691,838
Banking business declined	$3,057,264,787

Here it is apparent that the actual falling off of the banking transactions of the entire country, says the Journal, during the last year, as contrasted with the previous year was 11 round numbers, 10 per cent.

There was, perhaps, in real estate and the personal property of the people of the United States an equal if not a greater depreciation of values!

These are suggestive and important facts. Every wise and prudent man will ponder them thoroughly and, at least, ask why this depreciation of values? Why are these things so? Why a nation, whose people make its laws and manage their own business, should be worth less and do a smaller amount of business in 1876 than in 1875? Why should farms, houses, live stock and every thing else be worth less now than they were 18 months since? Few can give a satisfactory answer.

It is true that men in office, ranking high in the estimation of the people, affirm that this depreciation is on account of "an irredeemable currency." But when asked why our neighbors of the Dominion of Canada—whose currency during all the time of our depression of business has been specie and paper on a gold basis, make the same complaints that we do? they can give no satisfactory response. Indeed, "hard times" are felt just as much in Canada as in the United States, and their per cent. of failures has been even greater than ours!

It is the same also in Britain and in Prussia—the chief depositories of all industries with a single monetary basis—gold—and all paper redeemable in the same metal.

Our solution of depression in business, the hard times, and oppression in terms of real estate has become patent to our readers:

1. We have been invertor the products and manufactures of other people instead of employing our own idle ones to produce and manufacture the very same articles. We have destroyed a circulating medium that met all the demands of the times and have partially substituted in its place a currency not a whit better, and have thus increased the taxation and burdens of the people.

Shakespeare's Surplus Grain and Flour.

The Produce Exchange of San Francisco for about a year and a half, has made quarterly reports of the amount of grain and flour on hand in the city, collected with a good deal of care, and have been relied on by dealers with a good deal of confidence. The amounts on hand on the 1st of the present month, according to the report of that body, are as follows, together with a corresponding date in 1876:

	January 1st. 1876.	1877.
Wheat, centals	2,822,000	3,640,700
Flour, bbls	57,800	58,800
Oats, centals	52,000	80,700
Barley, centals	832,400	1,458,600
Corn, centals	66,000	142,700
Rye, sks	5,700	14,000

The stock of flour on the 1st embraced 36,000 bbls in San Francisco, Oakland and afloat in the harbor, and 10,000 bbls in Sonoma and Napa counties. Of the oats, 62,200 ctls, and of the rye, 7,800 sks are credited to San Francisco. Of the corn, 113,800 bags is still at the places of growth, on the Southern coast, 12,500 sks at San Francisco and 10,000 sks at the landings on the east side of the bay. The stock, according to the Commercial Herald, is much lighter than was anticipated, although the amount still held would load 150 ships of 1,000 tons each. Since January 1st up to the 20th, nine ships had been dispatched, twenty-one were present under engagement to load, and thirty at hand seeking, while twenty-five more were due.

Domestic Produce.

So far during the week there has been a moderately brisk movement in the minor products, but there still seems to be some backwardness in the grain and flour market. Shippers of wheat are reported to have nearly sufficient to load the vessels now at hand under engagement. Since our last the Imperial, a large American ship, has been chartered to load at Astoria, but we are informed that her cargo had been all purchased before she was taken up. Negotiations pending for the charter of the Athelstane will probably be completed to-morrow. The Alneburg will begin to load this week. The receipts from the upper Willamette during the past few days show a slight increase.

In most articles of domestic produce there has been an active trade, and prices as quoted are generally firm. The outlook, however, for provisions, fruits, etc., is dull and shippers find but little encouragement. The receipts of potatoes have been a large receipt, but as the local consumption is not quite as extensive as usual owing to the mild weather so far during the winter, the current demand is fairly supplied.

INVESTING CATARRH.

This is a common theme, season, reason, until your head seems ready to fly off, until your nose and eyes discharge excessive quantities of mucous, thin, acrid, and poisonous, until you for business or pleasure, your attention passes among the most afflicted of mankind, those who are periodically the victims of nasal disease, without a parallel or precedent. Every moment, every breath of a person an enemy is inquired. This is proper, you call it Acute Catarrh, and commonly, Cold in the Head. Its constant recurrence is due to constitutionally weak or diseased nasal organs, and enfeebled action of the secretory glands. In the permanent cure of this harassing malady SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE FOR CATARRH is unequaled. Instant relief follows the first dose. Its use destroys the morbid sensitiveness to atmospheric changes which predisposes people to this disease, and is sure to prevent an attack of Chronic or Ulcerative Catarrh.

CHRONIC CATARRH.

Symptoms—Obstructed breathing, partial closure of one or both nostrils, a stopped up, "stuffed up" feeling in the head, constant blowing of the nose, discharges from the nose of a watery or thick yellow or greenish mucus, frequently streaked with blood. Sometimes the matter becomes encrusted in the nasal passages and is removed only by repeated effort. In the morning on rising the symptoms are the worst. Violent blowing, hawking and spitting, until the crusts are removed, at least partially, and the throat is freed from the matter that has accumulated during the night. Finally the poisonous secretions attack the throat, bronchial tubes, lungs, terminating in pulmonary consumption, accompanied by a most offensive breath and impaired eyesight and hearing.

ULCERATIVE CATARRH.

This is the destructive and terrible stage of the disease. The whole nasal passages, including the eyes and ears, the tonsils, throat, bronchial tubes and lungs become, one after another, affected, inflamed, ulcerated, and succumb rapidly to this frightful monster. A peculiar acid is generated and set at liberty by this disease, which, permeating the blood, weakens and destroys its renovating power, and allows the system no opportunity to throw off the malady until this poison is neutralized and expelled. It is here that constitutional treatment becomes of the most vital consequence, because unless arrested at this stage the disease will make rapid progress towards pulmonary consumption."—Warren's Household Physician. Meanwhile a soothing, healing, and astringent medicine must be applied directly to the nasal passages, thus forming the most perfect treatment of the disease possible.

PERMANENTLY CURED.

SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE FOR CATARRH is a safe, certain and permanent cure for Catarrh of every form, and is the most perfect remedy ever devised. It is purely a vegetable distillation, and is applied locally by insufflation, and constitutionally by internal administration. Locally applied relief is instantaneous. It soothes, heals and cleanses the nasal passages of every feeling of heaviness, obstruction, dullness or dizziness. Constitutionally administered it renovates the blood, purifies it of the acid poison with which it is always charged in Catarrh, stimulates the stomach, liver, and kidneys, perfects digestion, makes new blood, and permits the formation of sound, healthy tissue, and finally obtains complete control over the disease. The remarkable curative powers, when all other remedies fail, of SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE are attested by thousands who gratefully recommend it to fellow sufferers. No statement is made regarding that cannot be substantiated by the most respectable and reliable references. It is a great and good medicine, and worthy all confidence. Each package contains a Treatise on Catarrh and Dr. Sanford's Improved Inhaling Tube, and full directions for its use in all cases.

SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE is sold by all wholesale and retail druggists throughout the United States. Price $1 00.

LAME BACK.

Lame and Painful Back. Twelve Days in Hospital

Messrs. Weeks & Potter: Gentlemen—I have just recovered from a lame and painful back, through the use of your COLLINS' VOLTAIC PLASTERS. My back was so lame and painful that I could not stoop, walk, or do duty of any kind; and was placed in the hospital for twelve days without cure. I then asked permission of the surgeon to try the Collins' Voltaic Plasters, and in a few hours after putting one on was entirely relieved of pain and able to bend my back; am now thoroughly well. I consider them simply wonderful. Respectfully Yours,
ALEXANDER JAMESON,
Co. I, 1st Artillery, Fort Warren.

THE RETAIL BANK, Limited.

THIS BANK CAN GIVE SATISFACTORY REFerence from leading men of Oregon, that whatever security is guaranteed to depositors through the Capital Stock being limited is vouchsafed to the public in our case in its full extent sense.

Other than the above we can only refer the people of Oregon for reference to the fact that "we still live," and the further fact that according to the laws of Oregon, not only our bank assets (including office fixtures) are pledged for the payment of our liabilities, but every dollar of our private fortunes are liable to the bank creditors, and said private fortunes, too, are "limited." A friend suggests that our office fixtures are "limited," but he is trying to "fear" our credit, and we warn you against him.
